A small piece of paper kept hidden in the vase of a New York poodle owner may be the answer to a 150-year-old cryptogram. John D. Heilbron, the owner of the poodle, recently posted the puzzle on the popular website www.cayley.com. The poodle's owner's suggestion that they are related to a German man named Wurst is not entirely far-fetched. Wurst (pronounced "Vurst") is the German word for sausage. When a previous attempt to decode the message failed, Heilbron posted his puzzler as a "challenge" on the website. "He couldn't crack the puzzle, so he put it on Cayley.com as a challenge," said Heilbron's wife, Martha, who gave a brief interview from their New York City home. Heilbron posted the puzzle in April. "It's been on Cayley.com for two weeks," Martha said. "We have about 300 visitors a day." Martha and Heilbron have three children, none of whom are named Wurst. While the couple's family said they did not recognize the

Moser SAN JOSE -- The Sharks' first playoff game at SAP Center was much like their first season home opener, as the home team found a way to take the W. "It's a good feeling," said forward Mike Brown. "It's awesome to come home and feel like you're a winner." The Sharks (48-21-5) played their first game as a playoff team, but their real celebration began at home. San Jose has ended its season on a high note by knocking off the St. Louis Blues with a 3-0 win on Sunday. "We played a pretty good game, but you know the best team won and that's what we did," said coach Todd McLellan. "When you play as well as we did [Saturday] and win as well, you're very happy with yourself." With an early 1-0 lead, Sharks forward Joe Thornton evened the score at 1-1 late in the second period. First-period goals by Dan Boyle and Logan Couture made it 2-0 at 10:44 of the third, and Marc-Edouard Vlasic's shorthanded goal at 9:55 of the final period made it 3-0. "We are just trying to stay patient," said Boyle. "Every day you practice, you're trying to take care of the details. Hopefully in two weeks we can be celebrating a championship." "The guys have been in this situation before and they understand that we can't wait for it to happen," said Thornton. "We're just trying to make sure we stay focused and play as hard as we can, have fun and win." The Sharks played their home opener on Saturday. Game 5 of the Western Conference First Round is Monday in Anaheim. "It's a new experience 2d92ce491b
