Note: there are multiple results for the same word. If it is your website, please let me know. Thank you. A: I found this solution on a forum thread. It basically replaces multiple strings by only one string: $input =

'a1a2'; // list of keywords to search for, separated by a comma // the keyword to search for is also searched for in the whole list $keywords = array('a1','a2'); $output = preg_replace('#.?#', '', $input); // loop through all keywords foreach ($keywords as $keyword) { $output = preg_replace('#(.?)#', '', $output, 1); } // print the output echo $output; This solution works on all browsers and platforms, as long as you have the source code available. Ask HN: Best solution for sharing photos online? - tomstokes I'm working on an app that will share photos online to friends or family members. What is the best way to handle this? The photos are uploaded directly to the app's servers and are then shared with friends and family by email. I'd like to make it as secure as possible so that the photos don't fall into the wrong hands. What are some recommended security practices for uploading photos to the web? ====== dotborg If possible you should host your own system and not use third-party service like Flickr, Dropbox, etc. [~~~ tomstokes Thanks. I'll definitely look into this approach.
