When the communication is disabled, the communication is using the "Tunnel Security Cookie" for authentication. The tunnel security cookie is only valid when the pre-shared key is used and there is no mutual authentication. When the pre-shared key is used and there is mutual authentication, the identity of the peers is authenticated and any security association that exists is used to authenticate future communications. The IKE Transport mode negotiation is disabled by default in the IKE Tunnel. The mode can be negotiated and authenticated by using the new authentication mechanism. The IKE exchange of state keys and addresses is disabled by default in the IKE tunnel. The state keys and addresses can be generated and authenticated with the new authentication mechanism.The present invention relates to a leaf spring which is essentially a thin strip
