`http_response_code($curlcode);` Jane (Jizzler), Charlie (Cheryl), Mark (MD), Peter (Pete), Sunny (Sunny). Happy New Year! I know I said the winter break was the end of my post-doctoral time in September last year. However, January will be the end of my post-doctoral time at UCR in what feels like a record fashion. The frenzy of my final day has been, to say the least, overwhelming. My lab has slowly prepared me for this day, and I have had an incredible amount of support from all of the great people in the lab. Being that, over our time working together, I have had the chance to see each of them grow and mature as an academic. I am continually impressed with the hard work of the people in my field. And for the last part of the job search, I have had two really awesome interview sessions with the deans and one outstanding transfer student interview.

Today I participated in an international symposium at the University of Rochester. It was an amazing experience and an honor to discuss my work with so many intelligent and passionate individuals. Today, I celebrate my final day here at UCR in what has been one of the most memorable and worthwhile things in my life. My wish is that everything that I love about science will be able to continue to reach out and touch the lives of others. From my parents, a thousand thanks for the great gift that I received through you all. To my parents in law, who stand by my side through everything. To my dog, who may have something to do with the fact that I found myself a job as a science. And to all of my friends here at UCR, I am beyond grateful for all of your support and fellowship. I am going to miss you so much! I also want to thank my family and friends who supported me during my childhood and adolescence. I was not the best student during my school years and I never recovered from that. However, I am grateful for all of the support I have had during my professional life and the inspiration you have provided me with over the years. To my kids: I am a brilliant Dad! You are an inspiration to me and a huge part of who I am and why I love science. The moments of pleasure we share are too great to put into words.
